Applicant's amendment filed July 16, 2003 has overcome the 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph rejection of claim 7 as well as the 35 U.S.C. 103(a) rejection of claims 1-4 and 6-8.

Applicants remarks with regards to the preliminary amendment are moot in view of newly amended claim 3.

Applicant's arguments are moot in view of new grounds of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 3, 4, 10, and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over (USPN 5,001,359 to Hashimoto et al) in view of (USPN 5,311,320 to Hashimoto).

In regards to claim 3 Hashimoto et al, herein '359, discloses an image sensor comprising an array of columns and rows of pixels(e.g., Fig. 4), all the pixels of one column of the array being connected to at least one common pixel output line(e.g., Fig. 4) having at least one memory element(e.g., elements Ct1 and Ct2 of Fig. 4) and at least one column amplifying element(e.g., element Q of Fig. 4), each common pixel output line being divided through two switches(e.g., Qb1 and Qb2) into at least two parallel circuits having said memory element, the two parallel circuits being connected through a switch(elements Qt1 and Qt2 of Fig. 4) with the same input of said column amplifying element.

Examiner notes that '359 discloses column amplifier element Q is a BJT transistor. Examiner further notes that one skilled in the art would recognize that using a BJT transistor for a buffer amplifier would enable lower power usage. However, one skilled in the art would also recognize that there are many CMOS buffer amplifier circuits wherein a CMOS buffer amplifier would be advantageous in reducing manufacturing costs. Official notice is taken. Therefore it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the invention to have made the column buffer amplifier using a MOS process rather than as a BJT in order to reduce manufacturing costs.

'359 does not disclose nor preclude that all of the column amplifying elements are connected to a common output amplifier. '359 discloses supplying noise and signal plus noise signals to the outputs(column 8, lines 29-34) wherein Hashimoto, herein '320, discloses using a differential amplifier in order to take the difference between signal plus noise and noise signals (Fig. 3A; column 13, lines 9-16). Therefore it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the invention to have added a differential amplifier to '359's invention in order to take the difference of the signal plus noise and noise signals. As such '359 in view of '320 discloses that there is a further switch(elements Qs1 and Qs2 of Fig. 4 of '359) between said column amplifying element and the common output amplifier.

In regards to claim 4 see Fig. 4 of '359.

In regards to claim 10 see Fig. 4 of '359.

In regards to claim 11 Examiner notes that '359's image sensor has at least two input terminals, wherein there is shown at least 2 exemplary columns wherein there is one input to the column amplifier for each column. Thus there is at least 2 inputs depicted in Fig. 4.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
